Breakout Sessions:

Jobs & Economic Justice: The Civil Rights of Economic Equality

9:00 – 11:00 a.m.

With unemployment rates reaching crisis proportions and its middle class under siege, there is no more fundamental challenge facing the African-American community. The roots of this economic crisis, however, are grounded in policies ranging from trade and lending to community development and taxation. A host of options are actively being debated in Congress today and will directly impact every family. This Braintrust will feature panelists able to explore the civil rights issues of economic development policy raised by the prolonged recession and offer solutions to the challenge of job creation. Protecting the Right to Vote 11:00 a.m. – 1:00 p.m.

The 2010 redistricting cycle and the upcoming federal elections have spawned a series of changes in election laws that have the potential to alter the political landscape. Through changes in the law, some states have even adopted procedures, such as reducing the days for early voting, which could have the impact of limiting participation by African Americans, Latinos and the young. With an expert panel, this Braintrust will explore changes in election procedures, allegations of voter suppression tactics and the importance of federal voting rights law.
